

Director, Center for the Environment

Todd Myers is Director of WPC's Center for the Environment. He is one of the nation's leading experts on free-market environmental policy and is the author of Eco-Fads: How the Rise of Trendy Environmentalism is Harming the Environment, Five Years of Environmental Policy: Are We Making a Difference; Promoting Personal Choice, Incentives and Investment to Cut Greenhouse Gases, and more.

Todd's in-depth research on the failure of the state's 2005 "green" building mandate continues to receive national attention. He formerly served as Director of Communications for the Washington State Department of Natural Resources, and was Director of Public Relations for the Seattle SuperSonics and Director of Public Affairs for the Seattle Mariners. Todd holds a Master's degree from the University of Washington.

For more information about Todd Myers via the Washington Policy Center see Todd Myers